Revenue by Product

Key Insights

- Top Product: Eva Water contributes the most revenue (38%).
- Second and Third: Coca Cola (21%) and Fanta (17%) follows.
- Lowest Contributor: Sprite at 11%.

Eva Water is the market leader among the products, possibly due to higher volume or margins. However, reliance on one product (38%) may pose a risk—product diversification or marketing push for other products could help balance revenue sources.

Revenue by State

Key Insights

- Highest Revenue: Kano generated ~~₦~~779,016.20, the highest among the listed states.
- Other States:
  - Lagos: ~~₦~~666,250.25
  - Kaduna: ~~₦~~367,963.60
  - Enugu: ~~₦~~339,223.85
- Kano and Lagos are the top revenue-generating states, suggesting stronger market presence or higher demand in these regions.

Revenue by Year

Revenue by Year

Key Insights

- 2010: ₦1,072,588.25
- 2011: ₦1,079,865.65

There is a slight increase in revenue from 2010 to 2011 (₦7,277.40).

- The line is steep visually, but the change is marginal in numeric terms which is just under 1% growth.

Revenue has been stable year-on-year, but growth is minimal. This could point to market saturation or stagnant strategies.

Revenue by Salespersons

Revenue by Sales Person

Key Insights

- Top Performer: Vaughn, Harlon with ₦293,276.35.
- Lowest Performer: Mccullough, Scott with ₦119,619.90.
- Other Notable Performers: ChristeKanonugun, Jill (₦225,028.60) and Owen, Robert (₦218,411.05).
- Performance Range: Revenue ranges from ₦119,619.90 to ₦293,276.35, indicating a wide variation in sales performance across the team.

Few individuals contribute a significantly larger share of revenue, which may suggest that performance is not evenly distributed across the team.

Conclusion

The analysis of the charts reveals the following:

- 1.Sales Performance is Uneven: A small number of salespeople (e.g., Vaughn, Harlon and ChristeKanonugun, Jill) generate a significantly higher share of revenue, while others underperform.
- 2.Revenue Growth is Stagnant: From 2010 to 2011, revenue increased by less than 1%, indicating flat performance over time.
- 3.Product Revenue is Skewed: Eva Water alone contributed 38% of total product revenue, showing over-dependence on a single product line.
- 4.Missed Optimization Opportunities: There is potential to increase revenue by improving the performance of underperforming sales staff and promoting less popular products.

Recommendations

1. Strengthen Sales Team Performance

- a. Conduct performance reviews and identify gaps for underperforming staff.
- b. Offer targeted training and mentorship from top performers like Vaughn and Jill.
- c. Introduce incentives and KPIs tied to performance improvement.

2. Drive Revenue Growth Strategically

- a. Develop a more aggressive sales and marketing plan to stimulate year-on-year growth.
- b. Explore new markets or channels for expansion.

3. Diversify Product Revenue Base

- a. Promote underperforming products like Sprite and Five Alive through bundled promotions, repositioning, or awareness campaigns.
- b. Analyze customer preferences and feedback to understand why Eva Water dominates and how others can be improved.

4. Product and Sales Data Monitoring

- a. Implement monthly or quarterly performance tracking for both salespeople and products.
- b. Use dashboards to visualize trends and make faster, data-driven decisions.
